Position — Cornerback

Mikey Munn — most people around him call him “Moo” — is a long, fast coverage corner who consistently finds the ball.

He led all starting college football cornerbacks in pass breakups and finished tied for third nationally in interceptions. Opposing quarterbacks completed just 41.9% of passes when targeting him, compared to roughly 60% against the average college corner.

Quarterbacks had a 34.5 passer rating when throwing his way. He disrupted 29% of all targets, nearly double what you typically see from starting defensive backs.

VALUES & LEADERSHIP

Mikey's approach to football and life is grounded in faith, discipline, and service to others. His mindset emphasizes preparation, humility, and representing his team and community with integrity.
